TO CONGRESS.

The President Sends a Message on the Samoan Situation.

Despite the Protests of the United States Government—Recent Occurrences There Have Made It Imperative That We Do Something—Some of the Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The president Tuesday sent to congress a message upon the Samoan situation, accompanying it with a mass of documents. The message says that German aggressions at Samoa have continued since last reference to the matter in the president's message, despite the protestations of the United States government. The German government, it adds, has expressed its willingness to join with the United States in forming a government for Samoa, but up to the present time all suggestions of the United States government with reference to the matter have been rejected by Germany.

The president adds that recent collisions between natives and a force of men from the German war vessel at Samoa had made it imperative that some steps be taken. The warship Trenton, under Admiral Kimberley, had therefore been sent to join the Yantic at Samoa, under orders, a copy of which accompanied the message. To these orders, dated January 11, 1889, and the correspondence of the state department with the German government, dated January 12, 1889, the president calls the especial attention of congress.

He closes by calling attention to the importance of these islands which lie on the direct route between the United States and Australia. The documents to which he calls attention were not made public by the senate.

The Samoan correspondence referred to in the president's message sent to the senate Tuesday has been made public.

Mr. Blacklock, vice consul at Apia, transmitting his record of current events, December 3, says: "You will no doubt remark on the dilatory manner of Samoan warfare, but when one takes into consideration the fact that they are all related to very great extent it is not to be wondered at so much that they are in no great hurry for the fray."

The record of current events contains an account, under date of November 7, of fighting between the opposing native forces.

Under date of November 11 the consul reports the Lubeck arrives from Sydney, brings back three of the people who went away with Malietoa, and state that Malietoa was taken out of the mail steamer at Aden, and put on board a German man-of-war, the Olga, said to be going to the Marshall Islands.

Under date of November 14 the consul tells of a letter written by the German consul to Matanafa, ordering him to remove his forces. As these forces were on British and American property, the Adams and Lizard were ordered to protect them. The German consul took no action.

On November 16 a meeting of the British, German and American consuls was held, but it ended in nothing. "The German consul," says the record, "evidently only wants to gain time, as he said, if hostilities could only be stopped for a week, it might be sufficient. The German consul said he must continue to recognize Tamaese as king. His idea evidently was to get a stop put to the fighting in the benefit of Tamaese, so that he could return to Malietoa as king, apparently acknowledged by the three consuls."

The record further contains daily accounts of the news from the field of battle, the last dispatch, December 3, being "Firing still going on at Laulii and Lotoanu to-day. No news yet received from the front as to results." Enclosed is the correspondence between the German consul and Malietoa, etc.

Commander Mullan of the Nipic, writes to the navy department under date November 25: "From all I can learn from high, trustworthy and responsible American, English and native citizens, I am convinced that the Tamaese party is assisted by subjects of Germany and especially by the German trading firm at Apia."

The Malietoa party outnumbers by far that of Tamaese and were not the former interfered with and hampered by the German element, there is not a shadow of a doubt that at an early day the former party would be successful and set up its own party at Apia; but as long as the present state of affairs is allowed, it is my deliberate opinion that this internal war will last for some time to come and may eventually end in putting Tamaese upon the throne, not the choice of the Samoan people, but placed there by German assistance.

Commander Leary, of the Adams, writes to the secretary of the navy, under date December 2: "Except for the continuous assistance given by the German officials and German firm, Tamaese's forces would be whipped and routed in forty-eight hours, but the constant supply of arms, ammunition and provisions by the German's alone, make it possible for the war to continue."

Commander Mullan, of the Nipic, writes to the secretary, under date of December 3: "It is apparent to the thoughtful and unprejudiced mind that the aspirations of these Samoans for the liberal and progressive government are incompatible with the German system of government in Samoa."

After their numerous internal wars and revolutions, the party of liberal opinions would be triumphant were they not interfered with by outside influences and the German men-of-war afloat of their fortifications a daily reiterated menace and warning, especially so on the eve of a battle."

Under date of January 5, a cable message was received by Secretary Bayard from Vice Consul Blacklock, telling of the engagement in which the Germans were routed by Mataafa's forces. This message was repeated to Minister Pendleton, at Berlin, and Minister Phelps, at London, and the information was transmitted to the German minister in this city.

An answer was received from Mr. Pendleton, January 7, saying that "the representations of United States would not be answered until full details had been received by Germany."

Under date of January 12, Mr. Bayard wrote to Count Arco, the German minister to this country, as follows:

"SIR—The instructions of your government to make known to the government of the United States their version of the late deplorable circumstances in the Samoan islands were executed by your very kindly reading to me the following statement, which I rewrite literally, as received from your verbal dictation on the 10th inst., and which was in substantial accord with your previous announcement of the same information:

"The German forces were landed in Samoa after the German commander had given notice of his intention to the commanders of the American and British men-of-war, the reason for landing being that some German plantations were in danger. Upon landing the Germans were attacked by the Samoans, under the command of Kleiu, an American citizen and lost fifty men killed and wounded. A state of war is with Samoa, is therefore announced with Germany, and as an American is alleged to have been in command of the attacking Samoan force, Count Arco is instructed to make complaint to the United States."

"Count Arco is also ordered at the same time by his government, to say that the treaty rights of the United States shall be respected under all circumstances, and all the rights of the treaty powers."

SEVERE EARTHQUAKE.

The Capital of Costa Rica, Central America Nearly Ruined—Loss $5,000,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—A dispatch from San Jose, Costa Rica, Central America, dated January 5, says:

At 4:20 a. m., December 30, the severest earthquake experienced since 1882 was felt throughout the republic of Costa Rica. In San Jose, both the National capital, and the magnificent cathedral fronting the public square, which required ten years of labor to erect, at an expenditure of $1,000,000 are in ruins. The presidential palace, city hall, National postoffice, and a dozen other public buildings were almost wrecked.

Reports from other places bring accounts of loss of both life and property. The latest estimate of the damage throughout the country exceeds $5,000,000.

The volcano so suddenly becoming active is the Pons, located some twenty-eight miles northwest of this place, at an altitude of 8,800 feet above the sea. It had been sleeping for years, and only a couple of weeks since a party of explorers, after a visit there, reported the crater entirely filled up. But now it has broken out with all its fury anew in another place, half a mile distant from the original mouth. An average of three slight shocks have been felt daily since the first.

Business in this city is suspended, houses are deserted, and the entire population are living and sleeping under tents in the streets or public squares, in expectancy of another shock even more severe and destructive than the first.

LEGISLATURES.

Otio.

Senate—Mr. Ford's school book bill was indefinitely postponed. A number of local bills were introduced, and some passed. A select committee was appointed to go to Toledo. Bills passed—Authorizing the inspector of shops and factories to inspect halls and other public buildings.

House—Bill passed—Making appropriations for the pay of members of the legislature; to prevent unauthorized persons from wearing the insignia of civic or religious societies; to suppress bucket shops; defining wines, and preventing the manufacture or sale of impure wines.

Indiana.

Senate—Lieutenant Governor Chase presided. A number of bills were introduced, among them being bills providing for the registration of voters, and to prevent trusts.

House—Bills introduced: Putting the new insane hospitals under the control of a board of trustees, to be chosen by the legislature; for the relief of the supreme court; relating to elections.

Snow in the Northwest.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 17.—Snow fell throughout the northwest Tuesday, mixed in places with rain and sleet. In the northern part of the state, in the vicinity of St. Vincent, the snowfall was from six to twelve inches, accompanied by very light wind. So far there appears to be no danger of a blockade. The storm was most severe to the southward, on the eastern and northern divisions of the Omaha road. Two inches of snow fell during the night, but it turned into sleet, while a slight snowfall on the Sioux City division turned into rain in a few hours. The Northern Pacific reports snow having fallen up to 6 o'clock Tuesday night, between here and Detroit. A heavy rain fell in northern Iowa.

Tinkler Pleads Guilty.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 17.—Charles C. Tinkler, the young forger, arraigned before Judge Outcalt at 10:45 a. m. He pleaded guilty to his indictment of uttering and publishing a false check on the Citizens' National bank. Judge Conner, his counsel, made a few remarks, and Col. W. L. Robinson, an old friend of the Tinkler family, made an eloquent plea for as much leniency as possible in the case. Judge Outcalt said he would defer sentence until Saturday, and Tinkler was taken back to jail. He looks careworn and downcast, and has at last evidently renounced the lawlessness of his crime. The other two indictments against him will not be pushed.

The Haytian Republic's Indemnity.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Jan. 17.—The indemnity asked for by the owners of the Haytian Republic has at last been settled. The amount is $120,000. Of this $50,000 was paid in cash, $30,000 is due March 1 and $40,000 June 1. The steamer will leave here January 29, and expects to arrive at New York February 1.

Limited Accommodations Cause Trouble.

POMEROY, O., Jan. 17.—James Garby, from Graham station, W. Va., was put in jail at Ripley, W. Va., for misconduct while occupying a bed the other night with David Beagle and his wife, who were short of beds. The woman sympathizes with the man in jail, and Beagle will sue for divorce.

Lord Sackville Continues to Draw His Salary—Foreign Notes.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 17.—A letter has been received from Henry M. Stanley, written August 17, to Tipoo Tib. The letter is dated from Doma of Banaly Muretin. It was brought by a messenger to Stanley Falls, and sent from there to the coast, and arrived here Tuesday night by post.

flower turns up among imported specimens he sells it. He never gives $5 or anything like that amount for a plant, as has been stated, but sold one the other day for $950 to Sande 3, the famous denier. It need hardly be said that the value of the collection is a trifle under $10,000,000—the preposterous estimate put upon it by some idle-pated scribblers.

Snellville's Salary.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Labouchere writes from London that probably the main reason why Lord Salisbury does not send a minister United States is that he is anxious that Lord Sackville, who is one of his relatives, shall enjoy for a few months his odium in Europe while drawing his salary as our minister at Washington.

Minister Phelps.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—A London special to the Journal says: It is announced that United States Minister Phelps will return to America on the steamer Lahn, on the 31st inst.

Foreign Notes.

The dervishes are expecting an attack on Khartoum from the south.

Donohus, of Newburgh, N. Y., has won another skating match, this time at Hamburg.

The czar has received notice that the shah of Persia, will start on his visit to this city March 23.

The household of the emperor of China is to consist of 500 persons, including thirty fan bearers, thirty umbrella-bearers, thirty physicians and surgeons, seventy-five astrologers, seven chief cooks and sixty priests.

M. Lain refuses to enter the senate until he has received proper preparation from M. Floquet for the latter's charges—the latter refuses to accept a challenge from the former on the ground that his statements are not proven.

GREAT INVENTION.

Work Performed by One Man Which Originally Required Sixteen to Perform.

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 17.—Probably the most marvelous hydraulic machinery in the world was placed in operation in the Wheatland rolling mill Tuesday. It is designed for rolling pipe iron. Huge slabs of iron weighing hundreds of pounds were pulled from a furnace glowing at white heat, placed on a long iron bed, which moved forward, upward, downward and sideways pushing the mass through rolls, back again, stopping only when it had been reduced to proper size in the shape of pipe iron. The whole operation required the attendance of only one or two employees, who controlled the machinery by few simple levers. The saving in labor is in proportion of sixteen to one. The machinery is the only sample of the kind in the world, and it is pronounced marvelous by mechanical experts. It will be used in future at the mill.

Won't Obey Powderly.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 17.—P. J. Kelleher, a merchant of this city, was boycotted by the Central Labor Union for violating the rules of an early closing association, which action was reversed on appeal to Master Workman Powderly and the general executive council of the Knights of Labor. The Central Labor Union refuses to recognize Powderly's authority, and will continue the boycott. This is not alone on Kelleher, but on Powderly, and in fact it is regarded as open rebellion. The members openly intimate that the entire district will go over to T. B. Barry, Knights of Labor reorganizer, if Powderly's decision is not reversed.

Arrested Under the Blue Laws.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 17.—Mary J. Wright, Isabella Harding and Jeannette L. Clark, three noted clairvoyants, were arrested Tuesday for practicing their profession. All had been warned to cease operations, but continued. Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Clark gave bonds, but Harding was unable to secure a bondsman and went to jail. Mrs. Wright will contest the case in court. The police are determined to put a stop to fortune telling. The case is brought under a blue law and has no precedent in the last century.

Damages in a White Cap Case.

ANDERSON, Ind., Jan. 17.—The jury in the McKee-Doyle White Cap case, in which Abe Doyle was prosecuted for damages for pasting a White Cap warning in front of McKeo's house, after eighteen hours' deliberation, returned a verdict of $50 damages against Doyle. This is now the established price for pasting White Cap notices in Madison county.

Verdict in the Silk Mill Disaster.

READING, Pa., Jan. 17.—The coroner held an inquest on the bodies of the eighteen persons killed by the collapse of the Reading silk mill during the recent tornado. The testimony adduced showed that the mill went down because of the fearful force of the storm, and that it was a perfectly sound and substantially built structure. The jury so found.

Arms and Ammunition for Hayti.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The steamer Saginaw, which sailed Tuesday for San Domingo port, had on board 200,000 metallic cartridges and sixty cases of rifles consigned to Samana. Minister Preston, of Hayti, tried to stop the vessel, but Collector Mugone said he had no jurisdiction, as the goods were consigned to a neutral point.

For Political Offenses.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—The grand jury returned thirty-five indictments for political offenses.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY.
ROSSER & McCARTHY,
Proprietors.

THURSDAY EVE., JAN. 17, 1889.

MAYSVILLE has the capital to make her a wide-awake city, alive with industrial enterprises. The trouble is to get the men who have this capital to invest some of it in factories.

Why not make some effort to get Mr. Huntington to locate his car shops here in Maysville? "Nothing venture, nothing won." There is a splendid place for them in the East End. The shops give employment to 150 men.

The communication elsewhere in this issue in reference to the proposed Manufacturing Association should be read and carefully considered by every citizen of Maysville. It is from the pen of one of our leading business men.

A COMMITTEE will be appointed in a few days to solicit subscriptions to the capital stock of the proposed Maysville Manufacturing Association. Do what you can to help the cause along. It will prove a good thing for the city eventually, if once organized.

THE Louisville Commercial is worrying a good deal over the next race for State Treasurer, and seems to be afraid the Republicans will fail to put up a candidate. The Democrats will select Mr. Sharpe's successor next August, whether the Republicans run any one or not.

It can be fully demonstrated in one year whether the proposed manufacturing association will accomplish what is claimed for it. The communication of "Citizen" elsewhere calls attention to this point. At the end of the year the stockholders would know whether it was doing any good or not. Why not give it a trial?

THE Louisville Times thinks Colonel Walter Evans is the Kentucky Republican for the President-elect to tie to, if he wants to fortify himself in this State. The indications point to Evans as the favored one, and there'll be fun in the camp if it should turn out that way. Swope, Denny and Bradley didn't trot around over the State during the last campaign and make all those speeches for nothing.

If the law is enforced, the bucket-shop will soon be a thing of the past in Ohio and the places that now know it will know it no more. The Legislature of that State has passed a bill that provides for the suppression of such places and of all gambling in stocks, bonds, petroleum, grain, provisions and other product. Violators of the law are punished with a fine of from $500 to $1,000, which goes as a lien on the premises.

THE present winter so far has been remarkably mild. Within the past week or two steamers on the St. Lawrence river have been making excursions trips, something unusual for the season. The continued mild weather leads the Commercial Gazette to say: "For several years the ice crop has been so uniformly good that the companies have got out of the custom of carrying over heavy supplies, and the probability is that the promised failure of the crop this season will be covered by a light surplus. Ice has become a common necessity. Should the winter's ethereal mildness continue, the congealed product will come high next summer, and the artificial ice-makers will have a chance."

THE Louisville tobacco warehousemen and buyers have gone into the "combination" business, it seems, to get the best of the producer. An agreement was entered into last week by the terms of which the warehouses are to charge a uniform fee of $2 per hogshead and one per cent. commission for selling and $2 rejection fees. Each warehouse has also obligated itself not to sell hogsheads "knocked down" for less than $1.50, or $2.50 set up on board of train; and further they have entered into a compact to advance no money on tobacco to farmers or dealers for less than eight per cent. The penalty for the violation of this agreement in any respect is $5,000 and forfeiture of membership in the Tobacco Association.

"This is a heavy advance," says the Bonbon News, "over former prices, and will work a considerable hardship to raisers and shippers generally."

Louisville, however, is not the only tobacco market, and the growers can retaliate by shipping to some other point.

County Court.

The accounts of Joshua B. Burgess, James H. Rice, John N. Thomas, W. Matthews and Wm. H. Cox as Supervisors of Tax, amounting to $18 each, were allowed and certified to Auditor for payment.

County Assessor John R. Burgess and assistants took the oath required by law and presented their accounts, verified by affidavit. The accounts were allowed and certified to Auditor for payment.

TO THE POINT.

Plea From a Prominent Citizen for the Proposed Manufacturing Association.

Some Sound Arguments in Favor of the Move.

The proposed Manufacturing Association should commend itself to your attention, because

First—It is a concentrated movement on the part of the citizens of Maysville for the improvement of the city.

Second—This is not to be a speculation, but a solid investment of capital in solid enterprises.

Third—the managers of this enterprise will not be chosen until the capital is subscribed, and they will be chosen by the subscribers to the capital stock out of their own number; and in the aggregate of interest and judgement of the subscribers it is confidently believed that men can be found who will deal honestly and faithfully. The number of the Board of Control insures that no small clique will be able to control this enterprise.

Fourth—The building associations of this city have been managed with capacity and integrity. One of them and its predecessor has been running successfully for seventeen years past, with honor to its managers, profit to its stockholders and great advantage to this community. The other has been in operation for near three years past, and has done well, and promises a successful future. A Board of Control for the proposed Manufacturing Association can be selected who can be trusted.

Fifth—The capital stock cannot be raised without the assistance of the capital of the town. Building associations are for encouragement of savings and procuring of homes, and reach a different class from those who will have to raise this money, if it is raised. Will you not help? The stock you subscribe is not subject to liability beyond the amount you agree to subscribe. Are you not willing to risk a little with so excellent a chance of making the outlay a good investment, with the certainty, if it does, of making a grand start for your city?

Sixth—The amount necessary to be raised is two hundred thousand dollars, to be paid in about eight years, in weekly payments of 50 cents a share. Suppose the enterprise is started, the stock subscribed, and at the end of the first year it is proven a failure. Will any body want to continue the payments? Certainly no one in the face of a certain loss. Let us take the instance of capitalist who will subscribe twenty shares, the largest so far started. One year of dues would require a payment of about five hundred dollars; on ten shares only two hundred and fifty dollars, and be sure of all who subscribe very few will be willing to venture beyond the first year, if they find the Association is not honestly and capably managed. A majority can discontinue the payments any time.

This is a grand undertaking and can not be consummated without the united effort of the people of the town. But think of the capital subscribed, and the money commenced to be paid up; the weekly instalment of five hundred dollars pouring in—with the Board of Control actively at work, looking around to see the safest and most satisfactory investment of that capital! It will open up an interest and a co-operation among the men of this community which will begin an era of prosperity—it will soon give employment to all idle hands.

Manufacturing has proven profitable here. With the additional transportation facilities now offered, why may it not continue so? The products of Maysville manufacture have a deserved high rank wherever they go. Our plows, our cigars, flour, cotton, yarns and other articles of manufacture have a ready market wherever they go as a Maysville product.

This is a judicious thing to do, and let us join our hands and our purses for the common good and we shall never regret the step.

CITIZEN.

Stock, Field and Farm.

At Lexington, court day, mules sold at $140 to $175, plug horses from $40 to $135, while cattle ranged from $3 to $4.

J. H. Huffman, of Bourbon, sold to W. T. Overby his crop of 18,000 pounds of tobacco at 7 cents.

A California farmer, who kept a careful financial account of the crop, says he realized $40 an acre from eleven acres of beets. A beet sugar factory in Watsonville has disbursed over $250,000 in that town this year.

The Flemingsburg Times says: "J. K. Vansant sold thirty-one mules two years old in the spring, to Joseph Finley, of Georgetown, at $106; W. S. Bell, fourteen to same at $90; Thomas Overton, two to same at $100; John Dorsey sold twenty to Robert Powers, of Richmond, Va., at unknown figures; Joseph Hendrick, fifty to E. B. Pearce, at $105; Alex McIlvain bought seventeen from Jesse Hurst, at unknown prices.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

News From Kentucky Enterprises. Her Coking Interests to Be Developed.

A new buggy manufactory has been established in Louisville, with an annual capacity of 1,000 vehicles.

A canning factory is about to be established at Elizabethtown, in Hardin County, where fruits and vegetables of the finest quality are produced in abundance.

The manufacturers of agricultural implements in Louisville report that up to this time their business has increased 40 per cent, over that of last year, although last year's business was an increase over the preceding year of 30 per cent. Avery & Sons are working their large force both night and day.

The coking interests of Kentucky are destined to become in the near future a great industry. Coke is now being made at Jellico, and there has been just completed at Pineville half a dozen large ovens. It is reported by those who know that the coal of this section produces coke equal, if not superior, to the Connellsburg.

The American Association at Cumberland Gap has interested some of the most prominent physicians of New York and Boston in a great sanitarium which it is proposed to erect at Cumberland Gap as soon as possible. The sanitarium will cost $500,000, and there is no doubt that in a short time it will rival the Warm Springs of North Carolina, and other resorts that have proved so profitable and so beneficial.

Suckers Will Bite.

The Mt. Sterling Gazette says: "Will our people, especially, those of the rural district, never learn that those fellows who are running over the country selling wares and claim they are paying too much to our merchants are frauds? Only last week one of our farmers was taken in by one of these swindlers, who, after abusing all merchants and running down their goods and expressing his profoundest sympathy for the farmers and laborers, duped him into giving his note for $90 for his shoddy goods. After the silver tones of his slick tongue had died away and the unsuspecting farmer had aroused to see what he had done, he saddled his horse and rushed to his banker and notified him not to buy the note, that he had been swindled. We again plead with our people to have nothing to do with these interlopers, and to trade with those who consume and make

AN ENRAGED MOB

Lynch a Negro on Suspicion at Birmingham, Alabama.

THE OFFICERS VAINLY ATTEMPT TO SAVE HIS LIFE.

But the Bloodthirsty Crowd, Without Listening to Reason, Knowing He Had a Bad Record, String George Meadows Up to a Tree and Riddle His Body With Bullets—Sheriff Smith Talks.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 17.—George Meadows, a negro, charged with criminal assault upon Mrs. S. J. Kellum last Saturday and the murder of her little son, was lynched by a mob of 500 persons Tuesday morning. He was taken before the woman, who is dangerously ill, but she failed to positively identify him.

Six deputy sheriffs vainly attempted a rescue. Negroes in the crowd declared that Meadows had raped a negro girl some time ago, and this again aroused the fury of the bloodthirsty mob. A guard of cool-headed men attempted to take the victim down the road, but after proceeding a short distance a pursued tried to lasso the negro with a small rope, and this set the avengers frantic. A rush was made for the prisoner, and he was taken from the guard.

One citizen climbed a tree, and sitting astride a limb called for the end of the rope. The doomed man was hurried to the tree, the rope was tightened around his neck, and the end thrown to the man in the tree. It was too short, and did not reach him. The other rope was called for, and a gentleman in the crowd elicited his way up to the prisoner as he stood ashen pale, without a sign of emotion, and called to the crowd to consider what they were doing, as there was still a chance of the man's innocence.

Then some one cried: "He assaulted a negro girl anyhow, and he should hang for that." This settled his fate.

"You have got a minute to live. No; we will make it five, if you want to pray," said a bystander with a watch in his hand. The doomed man's lips trembled slightly, the only sign of emotion visible. "I do not want to pray. I did not do it." "He is stubborn. He'll never confess," said the man who was splicing the rope.

In a minute the negro's dangling body was swinging in the air in the presence of over five hundred people. "Let's all take a shot at him," was shouted, and almost as quickly as thought a volley of shots rang forth and scores of bullets pierced the body.

Mrs. Kellum, who was criminally assaulted by Meadows, was soon informed that it was all over, and then she said quietly: "They made no mistake; he was the right man."

After the body was cut down a scar from a burn was discovered on the man's back. This fully identified him as the negro who assaulted a white lady in Shelby county two years ago, and afterward escaped from the sheriff's posse.

Sheriff Smith says that no warrant for the arrest of George Meadows had ever been placed in his hands. If a warrant had been given him he would have brought the negro to the city and protected him, if it required all the military in the city to do so. Smith says also that he thinks the mob made a mistake and lynched the wrong man, as he has a negro in jail now who he believes is the right man.

Football in Japan.

"There is really nothing new in football," explained a much traveled man to a group of friends as they went out to the Polo grounds. "The game has been played in Japan for a thousand years. But there were some differences of detail in the rules. They couldn't play the Rugby game, don't you see, because when they began there wasn't any Rugby."

"The Japanese game was sadly effete. You can learn all about it in the Ogasawara code of manners, the standard Japanese book of etiquette. It was a favorite sport of the court exquisites, who surrounded the mikado in the days when he was kept in a glass case, so to speak, in his palace at Kioto, as to sacred to be seen by ordinary mortals."

"The ball was a dainty thing of cotton, and it was kicked around a neat kept lawn by the gentlemen, while the ladies sat on the verandas of the palace, and applauded and sang songs and composed poetry. There wasn't any 'tackling' or 'scrimmages' or gore. If any of the gentlemen kicked the ball off the lawn one of the other players would pick it up on his fan—for they all played with fans in their girdles for use in case they grew warm with the exercise—and would hand it back to the kicker with a compliment."

"Wheever the gentlemen became tired they stopped playing and went back into the palace, where the ladies were, and had tea. You see, the Japanese game was rather different from ours."

"When I was in Yokohama I asked a Japanese gentleman to go with me to see a football match between two teams chosen from the foreign residents. He accepted my invitation and then read up the rules of the game in his copy of the Ogasawara code, so as to commit no indecorum as a spectator. When we got to the ground the match was already in progress, and in the middle of the field we saw a group of furions, half naked, hairy foreign devils clinging around one struggling foreigner, who was trying desperately hard to get away with a round bundle under his arm."

"Shades of Yorotomi!" exclaimed my companion. "Where are the police? See that desperate thief trying to escape! And they will kill him! They have him down now and are stamping on him! It is dreadful!"

"As soon as as well as I could I explained to him the Rugby game; but, with Oriental conservatism, he said, after it was all over and the players had limped home, that he preferred the rules of Ogasawara."—New York Evening Sun.

Heat Versus Food.

"Why do you keep it so blazing hot?" inquired a patron of the proprietor yesterday as he entered a restaurant. "Because it is cold outside," replied the proprietor. After the patron had left the premises the restaurant proprietor confidingly made the following confession to a newspaper man: "You see, I've been in this business for a quarter of a century, and my experience has taught me that under ordinary circumstances men devour more food at a single meal in piercing cold weather than when the outside temperature is moderate. When I first embarked in the eating house business I was green enough to economize in food for heating the premises, imagining I was thereby saving money, but I soon discovered my mistake, as the patrons of my restaurant devoured such inordinate quantities of food in winter that bankruptcy stared me in the face. It was here I learned a lesson from a cook, and through which I have since acquired a saug fortuno. My cook ate barely enough to sustain life in a canary bird, and I inquired the cause of his lack of appetite. He replied that it was due to his being constantly employed about a hot fire, and remarked that if I would keep my restaurant red hot in winter my boarders would not consume one-half the amount of food. I tried the experiment, and soon found that whereas I had heretofore saved probably $20 a month in fuel by half freezing my boarders, that I was saving at least twenty cents a meal in the decrease in the amount of food each one consumed while the premises were kept red hot."—Virginia City Chronicle.
